Camel cigarettes

Camel is a cigarette brand created by RJ Reynolds Tobacco Company (RJR) in 1913 at the initiative of Roman Caramalli and which now belongs to the company Japan Tobacco. Despite the name, trademark logo is a dromedary. The logo was inspired advertising done in 1987 until 1997 by the firm as a mascot named Joe Camel (or Old Joe)

Camel cigarettes consists of a mixture of Turkish and American tobacco to make smocking more gentle, unlike other brands of its time that were much stronger and hard to smoke.

Camel cigarettes can be bought in the form of rolling tobacco or in the form of a snus (chewing gum) since 2007.

The firm produces many packages collectors each year and many objects and products.

The official release of this new brand was accompanied by an advertising campaign consists of teasing with the slogan "The Camels are coming" (The Camels arrive). Wholesale tobacco only at our online store. Check our special offer from time to time. You may be in for some great surprises.
